He was all about his family and enjoyed spending time with his children and wife the most. He loved family days at the beach, and BBQs by the pool. He recently enjoyed traveling to Cuba.

He was predeceased by his adopted father Ricardo Jimenez and survived by his wife Nancy Jimenez. “ My cousin was the type of soul that brought joy in his presence. He always had a positive and uplifting thing to say, knowing he was giving the best of himself to the world. His family was everything, and he made sure we all knew that.

While we may not get to spend more times together, I know he will be looking down on everyone and be proud of the legacy he left behind.

Rest in peace cuz, thank you for making my days brighter and say hi to everyone up there for us! 🧡❤️

“ Food. Oh food talk was always another level with him 😂 I think I made barilla tacos and brought the leftovers in for lunch the next day with an avocado. I did say he could help himself to one but was not prepared to hear the “got damn” so loud it carried across the kitchen. Honestly I think that’s what really started our friendship. I realize it’s not much to anyone else but me, but I was going through some really difficult times then. He was the only one who could actually make me laugh. I will forever be thankful for that day because I honestly was at that place where everything seemed hopeless. Until this man kinda snapped me out of it. So thank you. For just being you big guy.
