“ Ik it's been a while. It's been 2 years. I've posted on here before but I've been thinking a lot about her. Sometimes I still cry. Other times I forget she's gone and start to walk to the door to go get my grandma to take me. I never speak. I remember and walk away. Lillian Wilcox was the best person I knew. I looked up to her. She was always there and I always knew I could count on her. It sucks she died when I was 9. Some days I really need her. I know I'm holding on to the past but wouldn't you if your great grandma died when you still didn't understand death? This lady... she was... just everything to me. She still is. Even though she isn't with me anymore she's still in my heart and brain. I love you so much. I know the one thing you wanted was no tears. I just had to tell everyone how wonderful you were. You would be so proud of me. I've really changed. Please just. Be happy 🙏

“ My great grandma Lillian Wilcox was an awesome woman. She was born on March 10 1933 she died at the age 82 . The date was June 9 2015 . The day before her last day on earth there was a lot of tears and I love and will miss you . I was a kinda stubborn 9 year old when she passed . On her talk at the church I just played my siblings phones and ignored the preacher . Then on her actual funeral I cried and so did my siblings. Thx to the few of you who are explaining what a great woman she was . Plz don't forget her .

“ I will always remember Lillian's sense of humor while taking care of her at Wells House. We use to tease each other about one thing or another. When she found out that I was waitressing at the TA, she use to ask me to bring her a steak because that was something she missed eating. You have my Deepest Sympathies.
