“ As I sit here and reflect on the news of Terry passing, it's bittersweet. "Bitter" because I know I have seen my friend for the last time, on this Earth anyway.

When I hear the name Terry Potter, the first thing that comes to mind is his gentle soul and smiling face. I used to randomly show up during the day at the clubhouse to see how he was doing and he would tell me about the latest things going on and when he would be opening the clubhouse next. He was there for me through some pretty rough times, and always made me feel like family, like I had a place to go and a friend to talk to you whenever needed. It gave me such a sense of comfort. He gave great advice and was a great listener. And I think that goes with a lot of other people too that would always randomly show up seemingly in need of the same thing. He was truly a great friend.

The "Sweet" part of the bittersweet is I know he is now reunited with the love of his life Char. I can't help but smile when I think of them together once again. He loved her so much. He is complete once again. Terry I'm going to miss you very much. I'll miss the way I used to make you laugh and hear you say "You ain't right ScottyB"

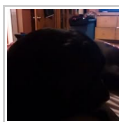

Thank you for your friendship and the impact you had on my life. I love you brother. And to family I love you guys too so much, and know that I am here in Colorado with a heavy heart thinking of you all. God bless ❤️

“ What I remember most about Terry is his constant efforts at bringing family together, especially for the kids. Whether it was birthday party, a Halloween party, or simply a get-together he always opened up his heart and home (AKA “the club”) to all of us. He always greeted me with a hug and a friendly smile from the second we were introduced. He will surely be missed by many. There is great sadness in his passing, but there is also comfort in knowing that his heart is full again, as he has now been reunited with his love, Char

“ Teddy Bear Terry, I cannot believe you were called home so early. You had many more chapters in your book that haven't been written. One being Driving Elsa with a cart or moving to Stradford. You always said you wanted a big chunk of land. God must of needed a really kind, compassionate, loving person in Heaven. And boy he picked the best of the best. This isn't goodbye. Its we will see each other someday in Heaven. You will be waiting with a bottle of water and a purple muck rake. Lol..... Thank you for being you and ALWAYS helping me out. Teddy Bear Terry, you are so loved! Rest In Internal Peace. 🐻💙🐻💙
